The Smithsonian Museums

Most cities around the world have museums. They collect things that are important in history so people can enjoy them in the future.

The Smithsonian Museums in Washington, D.C., are famous all over the world. More than eight million people visit them every year, and they are free for visitors!

There are 19 different museums to visit with more than 137 million objects to see! They are all close to each other, so people can walk from one museum to the next. You can spend a whole week visiting the Smithsonian Museums, and they are all different.

There are lots of interesting exhibits. The National Museum of Natural History has a fantastic dinosaur exhibit that is one of the oldest in the world. The dinosaur skeletons are real fossils, so the museum works hard to take care of them. The tour guides are very friendly, and they have a lot of information about the museums.

One of the most popular exhibits is at the National Air and Space Museum. There, you can read about and see photographs of the first men on the moon! The gift shop sells posters, toys, and books all about the museum. And after people walk and read, they can enjoy lunch and a drink in the cafeteria.

2 Underline True or False.
